

Inside the Cow Shed

Sanju Paul

Kullu, India

Inside the cow shed
with blood in her pants and abdominal cramps she suffers every month for that privilege of five days since times unknown

Inside the cow shed
with the bleeding womb
and labour cramps
she births a human baby and this is how she witnesses the dawn
since times unknown.

Coz' it's a belief
She is impure
impure enough to spoil the purity of gods!

Inside the cow shed
a lactating cow bleeds
with cancer in her bladder and a foetus in her womb
since times unknown

N' it's a belief
Her urine is a cure
potent enough to cure the cancer in humans!

Inside the cow shed
there is lots of agony !

Inside the cow shed
there is lots of blood

Sanju Paul is a pen name of Dr. Sanjeev Kumari Paul. She is a poet and an artist by passion and a veterinarian by profession. Her poetry had been a part of curriculum in Satya Wacana University, Salatiga (Indonesia), Assumption University, Bangkok (Thailand) and Himachal Board of School Education, India. She has also been honoured as first ever guest poet of San Jacinto chapter of Poetry society of Texas (USA). She belongs to a hilly state, Himachal Pradesh (India) and has been involved in various projects of literary as well as scientific temperaments ranging from very local up to global ones. She has developed an artistic technique of carved and washed paintings using discard PVC sheets as canvas. Pen sketching is another art form she is practicing presently.
